I'm adaptive in breaking news environments, dependable, and rise to the challenge whether in the field or behind the desk. My investigations, ranging from renters' rights to cold cases, have prompted legal change. With years of reporting and producing at both the national and local levels, I have built a close network of sources that allows me to break news and secure exclusive interviews. I am always curious and strive to learn, as shown by my recent masters degree. I aim to raise voices, hold those in power accountable, and tell stories that bring people together.
